About Ausbildung

Ausbildung is a structured three-year vocational training program in Germany that allows candidates to earn while they learn, gain real-world work experience, and build a secure pathway toward long-term employment and permanent residency.

Dual Education Model

Combines practical work experience with classroom learning.

Duration

Typically runs for three years, varying by profession and performance.

Certification

Grants a nationally recognized German qualification upon completion.

Employment Opportunities

Most graduates secure full-time jobs after training.

Proven Track Record

1,000+ candidates trained, with 600+ currently in Germany.

Benefits of Ausbildung

Earn While You Learn

A well-structured three-year vocational training program in Germany that allows candidates to work and study simultaneously while receiving a monthly stipend starting at approximately ₹90,000.

Strong Career Prospects

After successful completion of the program, candidates receive long-term employment offers in Germany, ensuring a secure and sustainable international career.

International Education Standards

The training is industry-focused and skill-oriented, leading to certifications that are globally recognized and respected.

Pathway to Permanent Residency

Participants become eligible for permanent residency after five years, with the flexibility to work across multiple European countries.

Simple and Transparent Process

No blocked account or IELTS exam is required, offering a straightforward and legally secure route to employment in Germany.

Higher Earning Potential During Training

Apprentices can increase their income through overtime work with compensatory off days, enabling financial independence even during the training period.
